

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

First and Last.

I am the semblance and substance,
The dream and the dream's desire;
I am the rose and the perfume,
The flame and the ash of the fire;
I am the goal eternal;
I am the Love-in-vain;
I am the thing you seek for—Seek for and never gain.

When the first wan light of morning breaks across your dreamless slumber,

And the fitful visions waken and the banished loves return, In the legion of the hopes you lost, the wrecks beyond all number, From the Place of Exiled Sorrows—see my lantern burn and burn.

Follow, follow—you must follow through the tortured stony courses;

Over height and over hollow where delight has turned to pain; In the land 'twixt sleep and waking, toward the great Dream River's sources,

For the prize you cannot gather, in the race you know is vain.

You shall see the hopes you cherished their nakedness retreating, Impossible and futile from the day you gave them birth.

And you still shall follow after, though you know the dreams are cheating, Which of old you thought were molded of the finest things of earth.

So I order; I, the master of the hunt, and fast and faster

Where the sweet shall turn to bitter I will drive you toward the Truth—I am Lord of your Confusion, in the Land of Disillusion.

I am he you sent to exile—the Ideal of your Youth.

I am the semblance and substance,
The dream and the dream's desire;
I am the rose and the perfume,
The flame and the ash of the fire;
I am the goal eternal;

The high intent, the promise spent,
The pleasure paid in pain.

phia Saturday Evening Post.

Turn, Fortune, Turn Thy Wheel.

From "The Marriage of Geraint."

By ALFRED TENNYSON.

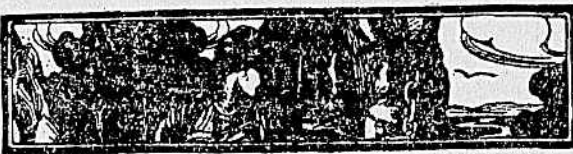

Other selections from this author, his portrait, autograph and biographical sketch, have already been printed in this series.

TURN, Fortune, turn thy wheel and lower the proud; Turn thy wild wheel thro' sunshine, storm and cloud;
Thy wheel and thee we neither love nor hate.

Turn, Fortune, turn thy wheel with smile or frown;
With that wild wheel we go not up or down;
Our hoard is little, but our hearts are great.

Smile and we smile, the lords of many lands; Frown and we smile, the lords of our own hands;
For man is man and master of his fate.

Turn, turn thy wheel above the staring crowd; Thy wheel and thou are shadows in the cloud;
Thy wheel and thee we neither love nor hate.

This series began in The Times-Dispatch Sunday, October 11, 1903. One is published each day.

ter Renshaw to Mr. Louis Stanislaus Burdett, of New York, was celebrated Wednesday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, in the home of the bride's brother, Mr. C. C.
Renshaw, of Altoona, Pa., the Rev.
Father Morgan H. Sheedy being the celebrant.

The ceremony was performed in the drawing room at "The Cedars," beautiful decorations being in palms and white roses. Professor Gilchrist's orchestra played Mendelssohn's wedding march and other appropriate selections.

The bride, gowned in white chiffon and old lace, came in with her father, Mr.
Robert Henry Renshaw, of the University of Virginia, who gave her away. Her veil was caught with orange blossoms, and she carried Bride roses, her jewels being diamonds and pearls. Her maid-of honor, Miss Alvin Weisker, of New York, the sister of the groom, wore white crepe de chine. Mr. Fielding Beale, of Mobile, Ala., was best man.

An informal reception was given by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Carter Renshaw after the marriage. The display of bridal gifts was elegant. Mr. and Mrs. Burdett, after receiving the congratulations of their friends, left for a tour through Canada and a trip abroad. Guests to attend the wedding were Mr. Robert Henry Renshaw and Miss Julia Wickham Renshaw,

LIQUOR DEALERS
OPPOSING HIM

Colonel James Mann Charges Organization is Fighting the Judge.

SUBMITS COPY OF LETTER

Nephew of the Nottoway Gubernatorial Candidate Predicts Mann's Nomination.

Colonel James Mann was in the city for a short while yesterday. He was asked about the charge made by Judge Mann, in his Manchester speech, and which has been much discussed since, that the Liquor Dealers' Association was endeavoring to take a hand in the legislative fight, with a view to controlling legislation on the liquor question in that body.

"The charge was based," said Colonel Mann, "on the activity of the liquor people all over the State in their fight against Judge Mann, and on a letter which was addressed by the Liquor Dealers' Association to all the saloonkeepers in the State, calling upon them to contribute to a campaign fund and to see that their friends were qualified to vote. The letter, of which one of the originals is in my possession, bears the names of the officers of the association, its executive committee of fourteen members, and follows:

The Letter.
Richmond, Va. (undated).
Dear Sir:—Enclosed under separate cover find report of the Anti-Saloon League Convention, held in Lynchburg, Va., January 17th to 20th, 1905. I implore you to read same carefully. I am confident, after reading, you will agree that time has come for action. Help cause by signing enclosed slip and remit $3.50.

The legislative election takes place this fall. Be sure and pay poll tax by April 20, 1905, and see that your friends are qualified. Trust on all who believe you may be buying supplies of becoming members of the State Association. Without funds we cannot hope to accomplish anything.

Please write names of parties you are trading with on enclosed slip, and mail same to me, that I may get in touch with them. Concerted action is our only hope of preventing the Anti-Saloon League making this entire State prohibitory.

Believing you will assist me in this important matter, I remain,

Yours very truly,

L. B. HANCOCK, Secretary.

The original referred to is on the printed stationery of the Liquor Dealers' Association of Virginia. It is undated.

Colonel Mann said he was informed that the letter was sent out early in February of this year. He declined to say how the letter came into his hands, but said he would vouch for its authenticity.

Colonel Mann appeared enthusiastic over his uncle's chances of success.

LOUISA MONUMENT.

High Commendation As a Work of Art.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

LOUISA, VA., August 2.—The following is a communication to Mrs. Wilmer Sims, chairman of the Louisa Confederate Monument Association Committee, from Mr. Elmer Burruss, an artist of Philadelphia, who is a native of Louisa and has won distinction and success in his chosen profession:

"The people of Louisa county have a right to be proud of the Confederate monument recently erected in their midst (which will be unveiled on August 17th next), that is in every way deserving of unique distinction among monuments of its class, not only in the South, but throughout the whole country. Especially should they be congratulated in this at a time when there is so much that is bad and meaningless in sculpture.

"It has been a source of mortification to art lovers that so many monstrosities in bronze and marble have found a place on American soil. Critics have sneered and laughed so at the bronze caricatures intended to adorn Central Park, New York—a place where one would look for good taste at least and sound artistic judgment. While many of us in the South, who love the refined art standard for centuries, have stood for our artistic flesh creep as we have gazed upon some insipid effigy in soldier's uniform, placed upon a pedestal and called a 'Confederate soldier.' As a matter of fact many of these figures do not represent a Confederate soldier. They are usually the product of some enterprising bronze foundry, which casts them in carload lots and sells them to any community soulless or gullible enough to buy. Those who travel are often struck with the necessity of seeing one of these figures North, erected to commemorate the courage and devotion of the Federal soldier, which he recognizes as the exact duplicate of one seen South, doing service as a Confederate.

"To those who love facts and sentiment this seems like mockery, and Louisa county is to be congratulated that, consistent with the means at hand, she has secured a figure highly typical of the real 'Johnny Reb,' together with a definite portion of a soldier's life.

"In this, as no stereotype bronze could ever really portray our hero in gray. For above all things the Confederate soldier was an individual; unlike the soldier of any other army on earth.
An individual who could not become the indefinite notion of a mass, but, like Harry of the Wynd, fought for his own hand. He was a self-sacrificing hero, who claimed no distinction, and desired only that he should be in the line of duty to himself, his country and his God. We owe him a country and a home in memory green. Dying, his head pillowed on the bosom of his mother, Virginia, we owe it to ourselves that his name should be honored. This Louisa county has beautifully and lovingly done.

"The design, the committee has acted with great wisdom and sentiment. Wisdom, in that no more able artist could be found to execute such a design.
Sentiment, in that the monument is placed in a place of honor, and in the portrayal of the Confederate type.
With sentiment, in that Mr. Sheppard was himself a lieutenant in the second company of the Richmond Cavalry, and and all old Confederates will feel a deep pride that this beautiful bronze, erected to perpetuate their patriotism, courage and devotion, is the creation of a comrade.

"The bronze was modeled from Mr.
Sheppard's design, by Mr. William Slevens, a pupil and later an instructor at the Virginia Mechanic Institute at Richmond, Va., with which Mr. Sheppard has long been connected.

Mr. Slevens studied sculpture in Rome for five years, under the best masters, where he gained an scholarship. The stone work was designed by William Cory Sheppard. All the details of the accessories were taken from objects in actual use during the war, thus assuring absolute accuracy.

"It is gratifying to State pride to know that so fine an example of art is strictly a Virginia product. The figure design is an exquisite example of what is known as alto relievo, or high relief, a form of sculpture always regarded as refined and beautiful. Many of our very best specimens of both classic and modern art have been executed after this manner, and the Confederate monument at Louisa will be another worthy addition to this class.

HEAR TALKS OF WOE.

Justice Crutchfield Disposes of Cases Provided for Him.

R. L. Lowry, a young white man, who was charged with feloniously striking with some blunt instrument, Richard Johnson, was discharged in Police Court yesterday morning, the evidence being to the effect that Lowry was attacked by two men and was only defending himself when he used a rock.
Johnson didn't care to prosecute the case.
On the witness stand, he said that Lowry hit him with a rock or a brick on the head, but I don't think he meant anything by it.
B. Schult and G. C. Hall were charged with being deserters from the United States army. They were held until Saturday to investigate the authorities an opportunity to investigate the matter.

Thomas Rosenbloom, a negro, was assessed $10 for hitting Ellen Williams, a shining light of the Ward Jackson. Thomas went back to the pen.

It wasn't proven that Philip Morton pasted Victoria Morton a good one, and Philip walked out.

Eddie Shanks was not connected with the charming given one, May Fleming, "a society" devotee of the Seventeenth Street vicinity.

The case against A. L. Powell, a business man of Manchester, charged with being disorderly on a street car in Richmond, was continued until the ninth in order to allow Mr.
Powell, attorney for the defendant, to advertise in the press of his intention to appeal from the car. Mr. Powell emphatically denies the charge, and says that if the ladies who were on the car will come forward he will be able to prove his innocence.

PROFESSOR RESIGNS.

Dr. Hunter, of Chair of Chemistry, to Go Into Business.

Dr. J. Rufus Hunter, who for ten years held the chair of chemistry in Richmond College, has handed in his resignation to President F.
W. Bostwick to take effect immediately. The trustee committee of instruction will meet at the college to-morrow evening to act on Dr.
Hunter's resignation.

Dr. Hunter leaves the college to enter the insurance business with his brother, Mr. Carey J. Hunter, of Raleigh, N. C. Dr. Hunter has been contemplating for some time. Dr. Hunter is esteemed most highly by his conferees, and believed to be one of the best chemists in the South. Dr. Hunter's resignation will be a distinct personal loss to every member of the faculty, but also by the student body will his resignation be regretted, for he was popular with the students and was a prominent participant in the athletics of the institution.

"IT WILL WIN."

This is the Opinion of Mills On Amended Annexation Ordinance.

There is much speculation as to the probable rate of the annexation ordinance passed by the Common Council at its meeting Monday night.
Some are of the opinion that the Board of Aldermen will amend the ordinance or will refuse to pass it, while others are equally as confident that the measure will reach the Mayor for approval in the same shape that it is now worded.

Councilman Mills, whose ordinance differed somewhat from the one passed Monday night, is confident that the Board would concur in the action of the Mayor. He expressed the belief that this ordinance was the only one that could be passed, and that if annexation was really wanted now was the time to get it.

MILLER WILL WED
DIVORCED SINGER

Ceremony Will Be Performed in Paris By the Rev. Dr.
Charles Wagner.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

FRANKLIN, PA., August 2.—Friends of the family, who had been authorized to speak, announced last night that Major-General Charles Miller, of this city, whose domestic history has occupied a conspicuous place in the public prints for several years, will marry Mrs. A. D. Bulen in Paris this week.

Like General Miller, Mrs. Bulen has been divorced. She is good looking, accomplished and has recently been living in New York city, where she sings in the choir of one of the large churches. She formerly lived in Franklin. She has a daughter sixteen years old, who is now visiting relatives here. The decree of divorces was granted about ten years ago, and her husband is still living.

General Miller is widely known for his wealth, his political influence, his family troubles, and the fact that he is the commander of the Pennsylvania National Guard. He was divorced four years ago and his wife is now occupying the house in which she and the general formerly lived. Her husband has fitted up another palatial home in Miller Park, where he lives with his sons, French and Clarence, and his daughter, Meta.

The date of the wedding is not known, but it has been announced that the ceremony will be performed by the Rev. Dr.
